A Calabrated London Doctor Used the Above to Emphasize the Danger of Overcating. Worse Than Overeating is Failure to Eliminate Waste.

Nature could not devise a way to feed and repair the body without the production of considerable waste matter. But Nature provided for the regular, thorough elimination of such waste. To disregard her inn is to break a natural law.

Whether you help Nature by wise or foolish means is left to your own judgment. To simply force bowel movement is unwise, unnatural and ineffective. You can choose harsh, drastic, violently acting drugs or take such without caring what their action or effect is, or you can select some old time-proven, trial-tested remedy, that has been used for 70 years or more by thousands of people all over the world, with the result that it has won an enviable reputation as a reliable household remedy. Take Beecham's for example. All the world knows Beecham's; a goodly part of the world uses Beecham's, has been using it for years. been using it for years, handing its use down from father to son, from mother to daughter, for generation after generation, recommending it to others. In spite of such extensive and general use, who ever heard complaint or criticism of Beecham's? That in itself is a

THE PETRIFIED FERN.

In a valley, conturies ago,

"Grew a little fern-loaf, green and siender,
Veining delicate and fibers tender;
Waving when the wind crept down at low,
Rushes tall, and moss, and grast grey
round it;
Playful sunbeams darted in and found Drops of dew stole in by night, and crowned it. But no foot of man e'er trod that way. Earth was young, and keeping holiday.

Monster fishes swam the silent main,
Stately forests waved their giant branches,
Mountains hurled their stormy avalanches,
Mammoth creatures statked across the plain;

Nature reveled in grand mysteries.
But the little fern was not of these.
Did not number with the hills and

Only grew and waved its wild sweet way.—
No one came to note it day by day.

Earth one time put on a frolic mood.

Heaved the rocks and changed the mighty motion

Of the deep, strong currents of the Moved the plain and shook the haught; wood, Crushed the little fern in soft, mois clay,
clay,
Cevered it, and hid it safe away.
Oh, the long, long centuries since that day;
Oh, the changes! Oh, life's bitter cost!
Since that useless little fern was lost!

Useless? Lost? Then came a thoughtful man

Searching nature's secrets, far and deep;
From a fissure in a rocky steep
He withdrew a stene, o'er which there ran
Fairy pencilings, a quaint design,
Veinings, leafage, fibers clear and fine
And the fern's life lay in every line!
So. I think, God hides some souin away
Sweetly to surprise us the last day.

RENCONTRE. An old man alking in the street.
A dirty man with trembling voice,
And ragged clothes, and shuffing feet.
Who spoke with one Le chanced to mee

For all his squalid ugliness
He used such magic words as these:
"Gardena," and "squills," and and "how the climbing roses lean." Then, suddenly, I saw behind

The man of streets, a garden wall, Willows that whispered to the wind And flowers of rare, old-farbloned king And clean of body, glad of eyes And clean of body, grad of eyes,
A boy who bent to work or play
Beneath the wealth of sunny skies
Had captured laughter by surprise—
An old man shuffled on his way—
